Poultry: Stability looks more likely (Neutral)

From our recent talks with Mr. Samhadi from Pinsar, we note that: 1) the government's plan on broiler price capping can cushion prices in the near term and 2) although December's broiler price increases may not be sustained, the price of broilers should still be in the range of IDR16,500-20,000/kg, helped by stable corn prices. 3) The FCR (feed conversion ratio) is currently about 1.3 and this figure is likely to decline further going forward. And last but not least, 4) broiler imports from Brazil are still likely to pose a significant threat this year. We remain neutral on the sector.

Stability looks more likely

From our recent talks with Mr. Samhadi from Pinsar, we note that: 1) the government's plan on broiler price capping can cushion prices in the near term and 2) although December's broiler price increases may not be sustained, the price of broilers should still be in the range of IDR16,500-20,000/kg, helped by stable corn prices. 3) The FCR (feed conversion ratio) is currently about 1.3 and this figure is likely to decline further going forward. And last but not least, 4) broiler imports from Brazil are still likely to pose a significant threat this year. We remain neutral on the sector.

The government's plan on broiler price capping can cushion prices in the near term. The government's plan to cap the broiler price with a ceiling around IDR20,000/kg can help reduce price volatility in the near term, we believe, as well as help to stabilize the inflation rate at 3.0-3.5% in 2018F, in our estimate. Mr. Samhadi from Pinsar confirmed his view that price stability in the poultry industry would be achieved during the pre-election year. According to his data, the gap between broiler supply and demand can narrow further, creating more balanced conditions with production/week of nearly 55-58 million broilers. In 2016 and 2017, for example, demand for broilers was still around 44-47 million/week and 47-50 million/week, respectively, and supply was about 68 million/week and 60 million/week, respectively.

Will December's broiler price increases be sustained going forward? The recent increases in broiler prices mainly stemmed from higher demand in December. Nonetheless, prices may not be sustained at the same level in January, February, and March. Despite this, we still believe that prices should range from IDR16,500-20,000/kg. Encouragingly, corn prices are likely to remain in the range of IDR4,100-4,500/kg in 2018, albeit above the government's reference price of around IDR4,000/kg.

The current FCR is around 1.3 and this figure may fall in the future. The feed conversion ratio (FCR) is as low as 1.3, which means that every 1.3 kg of animal feed can produce 1 kg of meat. Over the last 5 years this figure has improved dramatically from around 1.6 mainly thanks to better quality feed. Efforts to further reduce the FCR are still ongoing.

Will broiler imports from Brazil pose a threat? The main differences between Indonesian and Brazil broilers are: 1) the weight and 2) the prices. Indonesian broilers weigh about 1.3-1.6kg each, while Brazilian broilers can weigh around 2.0-2.5kg each. At the same time, the price of Brazilian broilers can be lower than the price of Indonesian broilers since corn prices in Brazil are cheaper. As such, broiler imports from Brazil are still likely to pose a significant threat in 2018.

Top pick: JPFA. We keep JPFA as our top pick in the sector given: 1) better stability in DOC and Broiler ASP, 2) better volume, and 3) better ability to hedge corn prices. The risks to our call include lower-than-expected GDP growth and higher volatility in DOC and broiler prices.

Bank Indonesia: Yearly inflation reaches 3.2%

Bank Indonesia has announced a statement that states the inflation of Indonesia reaches 3.2%yoy in second week of January 2018. This figure is affected by the increase of commodity price and primary goods, especially rice. BI believes that several import that has been done by government may slows down the inflation rate, but it might not be permanent. In order to control the inflation, Bank Indonesia, central government and regional government must be well coordinated to make appropriate action. BPS also states the same regarding rice as the component that contributes most to the inflation which reaches 3,8%yoy. BPS expects that the import of rice will control the inflation. Banking: BI policies to boost bank liquidity

Bank Indonesia (BI), the country's central bank, has decided to introduce new macroprudential policies in a bid to boost liquidity in the banking industry amid lower-than-expected loan growth. The new policies, known as the macroprudential intermediation ratio (RIM) and macroprudential liquidity buffer (PLM), are expected to increase the liquidity of both sharia and conventional banks. Under RIM provision, BI will expand loan components of coventional banks by including securities owned by the banks and expand financing and deposit components for sharia banks by including their sharia securities. BI expects RIM ratio of 80-92%. While the new PLM policy allows banks to sell 2% of their securities assets to BI through a repo agreement in order to better support the bank's liquidity. Conventional banks are scheduled to implement RIM and PLM by July 16th, 2018 while sharia banks are expected to implement them by October 1st, 2018. (The Jakarta Post).

CORPORATE

Indofood Sukses: INDF plans to develop new flour factory in Cibitung

Indofood Sukses Makmur (INDF) plans to commence the construction of a new flour factory in Cibitung, with total capacity of 200,000ton/year. Franciscus Welirang, the directory of Bogasari, stated that Bogasari booked 4-5% sales volume growth in 2017. While it is estimated to see similar sales volume this year, the management is optimistic to see improving revenue from Bogasari following regional elections, Asian Games and IMF annual meeting that will increase hotels' occupancy rates and consumption. (Bisnis Indonesia)

Comments: By end of 2016, Bogasari' production capacity was 3.8mn tons/year. In 9M17, the company reported 3% yoy volume growth with FY17 guidance of 2-4% yoy sales volume for Bogasari. Higher-than-expected sales volume should bode well for INDF. Maintain our BUY recommendation.

Kalbe Farma: KLBF targets 8% revenue growth this year

Kalbe Farma targets double-digit growth for the revenue from medical-devices this year, following the plan to have collaboration with local and international partners in manufacturing and marketing. In 2017, the management stated that FY17 top line grew 4-5% following weak purchasing power and currency volatility. However, the company estimate improved FY18 top line growth of 8% yoy with IDR1.5tn capex. (Kontan)

Comments: The company's guidance on FY17 top line is slightly below our FY17F of 5.7% yoy. Maintain our HOLD recommendation.
